

Invisible Star

Laura Zaerr © 2007

So many stars this moonless night; infinity of space and time.
Each scintillating point of light... a window into somewhere... devine.

In ev'ry star a universe suspended in a velvet void.
In ev'ry star another world, beset with sorrow, formed in joy.

With telescopic clarity the space between each star reveals unknown galaxies and nebulae so far a-way,
a million light years distant.

With this persistent longing my heart has formed a thread.
Resilient, clear, and growing strong...
from point to point a shining web.

(Harp Instrumental, bridge)

But a hundred million light years is not so very far, when you, my tender hearted child...are waiting...waiting in that star.